

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a tablet capable of being chewed or disintegrated in the oral cavity, which comprises a pharmaceutically active ingredient, and a matrix comprising directly compressible dextrose monohydrate and sucralose, said tablet being substantially fat free and said matrix being substantially free of non-saccharide, water soluble polymeric binders.